NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The Brooklyn health officers charge that a number of cows suffering from pleuro pneumonia have been taken from the stables and slaughtered at the abattoir. The carcasses are now under guard until veterinary surgeons investigate them.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Relating to Railroads.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—It is believed here by many that the southern managers of plans for subsidizing the Pacific railroad on the 32d parallel have injured their prospects by an alliance with the Pennsylvania railroad magnates. They say that if the Texas Pacific was a genuine southern enterprise, designed to distribute traffic to the southern cities, it might in the present temper of congress and the country towards the Union and Central companies be favorably considered. But there is no guarantee that this will be done while the controling interest remains with Pennsylvania railroadists.

Democratic Congressional Caucus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—At a joint Democratic caucus of senators and representatives, held in the hall of the house of representatives to-night, the first subject considered was a proposition to repeal clauses in the revised statutes regarding the test oath for jurors. Senator Thurman offered an amendment to the original proposition providing the mode of drawing jurors in the states where there is no provision for that purpose. Southard offered another amendment to repeal sections of federal elections law. Much discussion arose. Thurman urged his resolution in strong terms. Blackburn maintained that but one of the repealing measures should be attached to one appropriation bill. Senator Bayard opposed placing such repealing clauses to appropriation bills. He was answered by Senator Thurman. Finally the the above propositions with the amendments were adopted, and will accordingly be appended to the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill in the house.

Corbin-Butler Again.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Republican senators in caucus to-day failed to decide a proposition to secure an assignment of an early date for action on the Corbin-Butler contest. There was an informal discussion of the course to pursue in the case.

"Tagged-on" Measures.

Amendments providing for the repeal of federal supervisors' and test oath laws are attached by the house to the appropriation bills. The general tenor of expression was to the effect that effort to enact such legislation upon an appropriation bill should be strenuously resisted even to the extent of causing the bill to fail.

The Potter Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The Potter investigating committee in secret session to-day laid on the table the letter from Dr. Green, president of the W. U. T. Co., published on Monday, after a few comments upon its publication before it came into the hands of the committee. The majority of the committee, it was stated, did not intend to call any other witnesses at present. Whether they will subsequently, remains to be considered.

Recommendations for the Pacific Coast.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The river and harbor appropriation bill reported to the house to-day contains the following appropriations for the Pacific coast: Oakland, $60,000; Wilmington, $11,000; Willamette and Columbia river, $45,000; Coos Bay, $40,000; Upper Columbia river, $10,000; canal at the Cascades of the Columbia river, $50,000.

Wrangle in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—In the house today while the executive, judicial and legislative appropriation bill was under discussion, the following colloquy occurred: Page opposed the transfer of the surveyors general provision of the bill, which he stated was being urged by a strong lobby. About 300 sections of the revised statutes relating to public lands would be repealed by that provision. Wigginton favored the transfer and various provisions of the bill pertaining thereto. There was no necessity for retaining the office of surveyors general in the several states, and he was glad they were abolished by the bill; but the bill should have gone further and abolished the local land offices. Patterson inquired if the business of the people would be facilitated by removing sixteen local officers and concentrating their duties in one head. Wigginton replied that it would; that the local surveyors general were a hindrance rather than a help to claimants. McGinnis, of Montana, thought that the gentleman from California (Wigginton) was the only representative of the far west who was in favor of the change. Legislatures of the western section, on the contrary, had memorialized congress in favor of continuance of the present system. The bill would virtually repeal the homestead and pre-emption laws.

Recommendations for Indian Territory.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The bill reported by Senator Patterson from the committee on territories, to establish a U. S. court in Indian territory and for other purposes, provides for regulating the administration of justice in the territory and for making citizens of white, colored and Indian residents. A unanimous report of the committee accompanying the bill includes an elaborate review of the condition of the territory.

DISASTROUS DEFEAT.

A Column of the Queen's Troops Slaughtered in South Africa by an Overwhelming Force of Natives.

Gallant but Unavailing Resistance by the Troops.

Lord Chelmsford's Official Report.

MORE TROOPS FOR AFRICA.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

England's Army in Africa Terribly Beaten by the Natives—More Troops Wanted.

CAPE TOWN via ST. VINCENT, Jan. 30.—On the 21st inst. a British column consisting of a portion of the 24th regiment, a battery of artillery and 600 native auxiliaries, were utter annihilated near Tuquela river by 20,000 Zulus, who captured a valuable convoy of 102 wagons, 1,000 oxen, two cannon, 400 shot and shell, 1,000 rifles, 25,000 rounds of ammunition, 60,000 pounds weight of provisions, and the colors of the 24th regiment. It is estimated that 5,000 Zulus were killed and wounded in the battle. Among the killed on the British side are two majors, four captains, twelve lieutenants and a quartermaster of the 24th regiment; two captains of the royal artillery; a colonel, captain, four lieutenants, sergeant and major of engineers, besides twenty other British officers commanding native levies. Seven attacks, subsequently made by the Zulus, have been repulsed, and the colony is now somewhat recovering from the utter consternation which at first prevailed. Natal, however, is in great danger, and disturbances are feared in Pongland. Lord Chelmsford, commander of the expedition, has been forced to retire in consequence of the defeat. It is estimated that 600 soldiers were killed, besides the officers enumerated above. Governor Sir Bartle Freere has sent appeals to England for reinforcements. The mail steamer for England was dispatched a day earlier than usual with a request for six regiments of infantry and a brigade of cavalry.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Details of the disaster to the British force in South Africa show that the guns were spiked before they were captured.

The Defeat to be Investigated.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Lord Chelmsford, commander of the Zulu land expedition, sets down the British loss at thirty officers and about five hundred non-commissioned officers rank and file of the imperial troops, and seventy non-commissioned officers rank and file of the colonial troops. A court of inquiry has been ordered to collect evidence regarding the affair. It would seem that the troops were enticed from their camp, as the action took place about a mile and a quarter outside of it.

The Slaughtered Column—Chelmsford's Report.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The following is the full strength of the British column, a part of which was attacked by the Zulus:

No. 3 column, headquarters at Help Makaar, near Rorkes drift, commandant. Col. Glyn, 1st battalion of the 24th regiment, artillery N battery; 5th brigade, royal artillery, with 7 pounder gun; infantry, seven companies of the 1st battalion, of the 24th regiment; and the 2d battalion of the 24th regiment, under Lieut. Col. DeGacher; national mounted police and volunteers: national carbineers; Buffalo border guard; Newcastle mounted rifles; all mounted and averaging 40 men each, and a native contingent of 1,000 men under the commandant of Lonsdale, late of the 74th Highlanders.

The following communication has been received at the war office from Lord Chelmsford:

I regret to have to report a very disastrous engagement, on the 22d of January, between the Zulus and a portion of No. 3 column which was left to guard the camp. About 10 miles in front of Rorkes drift the Zulus came down in overwhelming numbers, and in spite of a gallant resistance by five companies, the first battalion of the 24th regiment, one company of the 2d battalion of the 24th regiment, two guns, two rocket tubes, 104 mounted men and about 800 natives, they overwhelmed them, and the camp containing all the surplus ammunition and transport of No. 3 column was taken, and but few of its defenders escaped. Our loss I fear, must be set down at 30 officer and about 500 non commissioned officers rank and file of the imperial troops, and 70 non-commissioned officers rank and file of the colonial troops.

A court of inquiry has been ordered to assemble and to collect evidence regarding this unfortunate affair which will be forwarded to you as soon as received. Full particulars as far as can be obtained have been sent in my dispatch which will reach you by next mail.

It would seem that the troops were enticed away from their camp, as the action took place about a mile and a quarter outside of it. The remainder of Col. Glyn's column reoccupied the camp after dark the same night, having been with me twelve miles away all day. On the following morning we arrived at Rorke's drift, which for twelve hours had been attacked by from 3,000 to 4,000 Zulus. Its defense by some 800 men of the 24th regiment was most gallant; 370 bodies lay close around the post. I compute the Zulus' loss at 1,000 here alone. At camp where the disaster occurred, the loss of the enemy is computed at over 2,000. Col. Pearson, commanding No. 1 column, has been attacked, but he repulsed the Zulus.

An Official and Popular Sensation.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—A summons was issued this morning for a cabinet council to be held at 2 this afternoon to deliberate on the reverses to British troops in Zulu land. Official telegrams announcing the defeat were received at the colonial office at 12:30 this morning. They substantially confirm the details already given. News of the defeat has caused a sensation throughout London, and the demand for newspapers at all suburban stations was greater than since the outbreak of the Franco-German war.

The "Times" on the African Disaster.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Times, commenting on the news from Cape Town, says: It would be useless to deny either the sadness or extreme gravity of the catastrophe, whether there was or was not any want of vigilance on the part of our own forces. It is clear that the Zulus are even more formidable than our military authorities expected them to be. We now know too well how large a force they can mass at one point. Sad as the loss of our own troops is, still graver is the peril which must arise with defeat. The Zulus will be emboldened and the colonists be exposed to fresh and formidable dangers. In these circumstances the duty of the government cannot admit of the slightest doubt, and it is to send ample reinforcements to the cape without needless delay of a single hour.

Reinforcements for Chelmsford.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The cabinet council today decided to send six battalions of infantry, two regiments of cavalry, two batteries of artillery, a company of engineers, three companies of army service corps, and a company of army hospital corps, to reinforce Lord Chelmsford.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 11.—An order of the privy council revoking after March 3d, article 13 of the foreign animals order so far as it relates to the United States, was a great surprise. All cattle from the United States, after March 3d, will have to be slaughtered in abattoirs now preparing on docks at Birkenhead and Liverpool, within ten days after landing.

Another Version of the Eastern Treaty.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 11.—The definitive treaty between Russia and Turkey declares peace and cordial relations to be re-established between Russia and Turkey, and provides that articles of the San Stefano treaty which were not modified by the treaty of Berlin shall remain in force. The mode of payment of the war indemnity and compensation to Russian residents of Turkey who suffered through the war is left for future agreement. All prosecutions for aiding the other side during the war are abandoned, and persons implicated in the Roumelian disturbances are pardoned. The protocol declares that the recognition of the treaty of Berlin in the present treaty changes neither its character nor range of power. As Servia, Montenegro and Roumania are independent, Russia leaves them free to come to an understanding for themselves with the porte relative to their claims for war indemnities.

Death of an Editor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Geo. W. Gift, editor of the Napa Reporter, a captain in the confederate navy during the war, died at Napa to-day.

Geo. M. Pinney on Trial.

The impaneling of a jury to try George M. Pinney on the first of four indictments for fraudulently issuing navy pay certificates was begun this forenoon in the United States circuit court, and the understanding between counsel is said to be that the verdict in this case is to decide whether the other three are to be brought to trial. The evidence to be introduced will be identical with that given on the trial of ex-Paymaster Spaulding, who was acquitted. As regards Pinney, the U. S. district attorney claims that the fact of his filling out blank certificates of payment already bearing Spaulding's signature made him legally guilty of fraud. The defense will be that there is no evidence to connect him with the payment and that the filling out by him was a clerical duty as the paymaster's clerk, for which the head of the department was responsible.

Patterson, of N.Y., opposed that portion of the bill which proposes to transfer the coast and geodetic survey from the treasury to the interior department; that the provision would virtually abolish the system of public land surveys. The bill would throw insurmountable obstacles in the way of settlement of the public domain.

Page, Dunnell, Haskell and Hale opposed the transfer, and Wigginton, Hewitt, (N. C.), Butler and Garfield favored it. After some progress in the bill the committee rose.

Reagan, chairman of the committee on commerce, reported the river and harbor appropriation bill ordered printed and recommitted.

THE NEW YORK APPOINTMENTS.

CONKLING AND THE ADMINISTRATION—VOTE ON THE CONFIRMATION OF MERRITT.

(Washington Special, Feb. 3.)

Conkling's speech is said by some who heard it to have been less than an hour in length—by others to have occupied two hours in delivery. The truth seems to be that it was so absorbingly interesting that senators took no note of time as it passed. There was no review of the long continued controversy in what the senator from New York said, but it was what he seems very properly to have called a freeing of his mind.

In the midst of Conkling's speech he took from his pocket a large bundle of letters addressed to Arthur while he was collector, by different persons whose relations to the administration are, or were, more or less intimate, asking for the appointment of persons in the New York custom house, for various reasons given. Among the writers of these letters were McCrary, Gov. McCormick, when he was assistant secretary of the treasury, Rogers, the president's private secretary, and others. The scene in the senate during the reading of these letters was a most remarkable one. None such has been witnessed there for years. Conkling read one letter asking that Bradley be provided for in the New York custom house because he was a son of Justice Bradley, of the supreme court.

"Son of whom?" shouted some senator.

"Son of Justice Bradley," replied Conkling, in a very loud voice.

"What Justice Bradley is that?" asked another senator.

"Why, Justice Bradley of the electoral commission," said Mr. Conkling, "and of the supreme court of the United States."

"Oh ho!" shouted a third senator; "then they wanted to provide for him, did they?"

A similar scene occurred when another letter was read asking for the appointment of John O. Howard of Ohio, "who had written the life of President Hayes."

"Whose life is that which he wrote?" shouted a senator with his hand at his ear.

"Life of the president; President Hayes," responded Conkling, with some other remarks which were not complimentary to the head of the administration, and then there were exclamations of mock surprise and loud laughter in the senate. One letter asked for the appointment of a man because he was the writer's wife's sister's son.

Altogether, the exhibition which Conkling made of the practice of the administration of civil service reform was a very humiliating one, and it showed that, while the president may have been trying to reform the civil service, he has had men around him who, to say the least, have had the weakness of ordinary politicians.

The roll being called on the question of confirming the nomination of General Merritt, the vote resulted, yeas 33, nays 24, as follows:

Yeas—Bailey, Bayard, Beck, Burnside, Cameron, (Wis.), Coke, Conover, Davis (W. Va.), Dawes, Dennis, Ferry, Gordon, Grover, Harris, Hereford, Hill, Hoar, Johnston, Kirkwood, McCreery, McMillan, Matthews, Morgan, Morrill, Oglesby, Randolph, Ransom, Saulsbury, Saunders, Shields, Whyte, Windom, Withers—33.

Nays—Allison, Anthony, Blaine, Booth, Bruce, Chaffee, Cockrell, Conkling, Davis (Illinois), Eaton, Garland, Hamlin, Howe, Jones, (Nevada) Kellogg, McDonald, Mitchell, Paddock, Patterson, Rollins, Sargent, Spencer, Teller, Voorhees—24.

Butler, Christiancy, Lamar, Merrimon, Plumb, Thurman and Wallace, who would have voted yes, were paired with Barnum, Edmunds, McPherson, Ingalls, Sharon, Dorsey and Cameron, (Penn.), who would have voted nay. Kernan, Jones, (Fla.), Maxey and Wadleigh, though present and not paired, did not vote, and Eustice, making the 76th member of the senate, was absent without a pair.

An analysis of the vote and of the pairs on Gen. Merritt's nomination, shows that 27 Democrats and 13 Republicans favored confirming, and 23 Republicans and seven Democrats opposed it. One independent, (Davis, of Illinois), voted against confirmation, four Democrats refrained from voting, and one Democrat was absent without pair.

The New York Tribune, on Conkling's defeat, says: "Several considerations tended to this result. There was a growing feeling that it was neither fair to the officials concerned, nor good business policy, for the government to force in the most important office under the secretary of the treasury an official openly hostile to him. Above all, there was a strong feeling that the New York custom house should not be permitted to become an open sore on the body of the Republican party. One way or another, the matter had to be adjusted and senators found it the easiest to adjust it by keeping in men against whom no complaints were made."

The Times has the following: "The struggle became a mere trial of strength between opposing political powers, and the result has as little to do with the character, either of the new collector or the old one, as it has with the forgotten principles of civil service reform. Conkling's defeat may serve to remind him that tact and moderation are quite as necessary qualifications for a successful politician as power of invective or the trick of calling names. Neither Conkling, nor any one else, however, can derive from the success of the administration in this struggle, any encouragement for political honesty or personal consistency."

The World's comments are: "Having no leadership or concerted plan of action, a good many Democrats took advantage of the liberty in non-essentials left them by the caucus to vote for Hayes nominations. They did this obviously under the impression that by doing it they would thus weaken the Republican party in New York. There was not much more civil service reform in this course than in the course of Sherman and Hayes, and it remains to be seen whether there was or was not much political gumption in it."

NEVADA'S DEAD TOWNS.

CITIES OF DESOLATION—HABITATIONS FOR DRAGONS AND COURTS FOR OWLS.

(Correspondence San Francisco Bulletin.)

Nevada is one of the very youngest and wildest of the states, nevertheless it is already strewn with ruins that seem as gray and silent and timeworn as if the civilization to which they belonged had perished centuries ago. Yet, strange to say, all these ruins are the results of mining efforts made within the last few years. Wander where you may throughout the length and breadth of this mountain-barred wilderness, you everywhere come upon these dead mining towns, with their tall chimney stacks, standing forlorn amid broken walls and furnaces, machinery half buried in the sand, the very names of many of them already forgotten amid the excitements of later discoveries, and now known only through tradition—tradition ten years old. While exploring the mountain ranges of the state during a considerable portion of three summers, I think that I have seen at least five of these deserted towns and villages for every one in ordinary life. Some of them were probably only camps built by bands of prospectors, and inhabited for a few months or a few years, while some specially interesting canyon was being explored, and then carelessly abandoned for more promising fields. But many were real towns, regularly laid out and incorporated, containing well built hotels, churches, schoolhouses, postoffices and jails, as well as mills on which they all depended, and whose well graded streets were filled with lawyers, doctors, brokers, hangmen and real estate agents, etc., the whole population numbering several thousand.

A few years ago the population of Hamilton is said to have been 8,000; that of Treasure Hill 6,000; of Shermantown, 7,000; of Swansea, 3,000. All of these were incorporated towns, with mayor, council, fire departments, and daily newspapers. Hamilton has now about one hundred inhabitants, most of whom are merely waiting in dreary inaction for something to turn up. Treasure Hill has about half as many. Shermantown one family and Swansea none. While on the other hand the graveyards are far too full.

In one canyon of the Toiyabe range, near Austin, I found no less than five dead towns without a single inhabitant. The streets and blocks of "real estate" graded on the hillsides are rapidly falling back into the wilderness. Sage brushes are growing up around the forges of the blacksmith shops, and lizards bask on the crumbling walls.

While traveling southward from Austin, down Big Smoky valley, I noticed a remarkable tall and imposing column, rising like a lone pine out of the sage brush on the edge of a dry gulch. This proved to be a smoke stack of solid masonry, seemingly strangely out of place in the desert, as if it had been transported entire from the heart of some noisy manufacturing town and left here by mistake. I learned afterwards that it belonged to a set of furnaces that were built by a New York company to smelt ore that never was found. The tools of the workmen are still lying in place beside the furnaces, as if dropped in some sudden Indian or earthquake panic and never afterwards handled. These imposing ruins, together with the desolate town, lying a quarter of a mile to the northward, presented a most vivid picture of wasted effort. Coyotes now wander unmolested through the brushy streets, and of all the busy throng that so lavishly spent their time and money here only one remains—a lone bachelor with one suspender.

Mining discoveries and progress, retrogression and decay, seem to have been crowded more closely against each other here than on any other portion of the globe. Some one of the band of adventurous prospectors who came from the exhausted placers of California would discover some rich ore—how much or little mattered not at first. These specimens fell among excited seekers after wealth like sparks in gunpowder, and in a few days the wilderness was disturbed with the noisy clang of miners and builders. A little town would then spring up, and before anything like a careful survey of any particular lode could be made, a company would be formed, and expensive mills built. Then, after all the machinery was ready for the ores, perhaps little, or none at all, was to be found. Meanwhile another discovery is reported, and the young town is abandoned as completely as a camp made for a single night, and so on, until some really valuable lode is found, such as those of Eureka, Austin, Virginia, &c., which formed the substantial groundwork for a thousand other excitements.

AN ALLEGORY, CHAPTER II.

Mr. W. Stanley, secretary of the investigating committee, in the following printed in the Statesman, retorts upon certain organs which have been temerariously attacking him for his share in the inquisition whose results have so greatly stirred up the admirers of the virtuous Grover-Chadwick administration:

If there is anything ashore that I really love, it is a friendly controversy with an honest man, one who has a stainless name, and character that reflects the light of the sun—the purity of the untrodden snows that crown the virgin mountain's top. When I find such a man, endowed with the learning and eloquence—the poetry and philosophy of the ages that have wrapped the mantle of oblivion about their shadowy forms and crossed the mystic stream that separates the here from the hereafter, I can stay right by him. But what is this?

A. Nolter called and sworn.

Q. Are you a practical printer? A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been engaged in printing? A. For nearly 20 years.

Q. Were you appointed by the legislature of 1876 to act as expert upon the measurement of the session work of 1876? A. I was.

Q. Did you measure it? A. I looked over the matter; Cornell prepared the scales for me and the price list; I examined the work to see whether it would compare with the laws.

Q. Did you measure the work? A. I did not.

Q. You took Cornell's measurement? A. I did.

Q. In all? A. I did.

House journal 1878, p. 565.

H. J. R. No. 40, of the session of 1872, provides that for pamphlets and journals paper 24 by 38 inches in size shall be used. The testimony of Mr. Keady and also Mr. Stinson, who was foreman of the state printing office, shows that paper of that size was actually used, but the state was charged for paper only one-fourth that size, the printer making four reams of one. Thus for a ream of paper for which the law allowed $10, and which actually cost but $6, the printer obtained from the state $40.

House journal 1878, p. 532.

It will be seen that the state printer during the two years ending September 1, 1878, was overpaid on work measured by an expert $7,854 47, added to $765 overpaid according to the testimony of ex-Secretary Chadwick, for covering documents never covered, making $8,619 47. To this should be added probable pro rata overpayment on the $4,904 23, not measured, which makes such over-payments amount to more than $10,000—and this sum does not include—&c. * * * * * * *

House journal 1878, p. 535.

Will our friend of the heroic conundrum, and jurassic allegory—the janizary of the Mercury, who moistens his daily bread in the sweat of his cast iron cheek, appease the devouring curiosity of the people of Oregon, by explaining his percentage in this steal, or if he absorbed all of it. And will he please not to mix it with any drivel about "character," "honesty" or "chastity," nor intimate that because he is virtuous(?) the rest of us shall have no more cakes and ale.

W. STANLEY.

The ameer can neither read nor write. "What is the use of reading or writing?" he asks, "when one has hundreds of people to do it for one?" He is, however, said to be well up in history, the result of conversations with learned men, by whom he liked to be surrounded, as do most Indian princes.

THE MORMONS AND THE LAW

Utah's polygamous delegate George Q Cannon who takes Mrs Cannon to Washington in her plural capacity to comfort him with her multifarious society during his labors of statesmanship is both grieved and enraged over the recent decision of the supreme court on the subject of polygamy He thinks it exceedingly unjust and oppressive that after leaving the law of 18 without enforcement during so many years congress and the courts should now at length resolve to hold to accountability those who have violated it—a complaint which is much the same as if one should take it ill that nature after her laws had been wilfully violated during long years should suddenly shut down on the individual and enforce her penalties which were all the time impending and sure at last to fall But Elder Cannon now promises that the law shall be obeyed He says that no more plural marriages will take place but that the people of Utah will accept and abide by the law as delivered by the supreme court This is presented as part of an appeal against further prosecutions but it may be doubted whether the brother at Washington has authority to speak for his people on this subject The Mormon newspapers in most turgid rhetoric denounce the decision of the supreme court and the new act against polygamy proposed in congress and declare that the utmost power and spite of tyranny shall not force them to renounce a cardinal doctrine of their revealed religion

While bluster of this kind is entitled only to contempt it is nevertheless impossible not to feel some pity for many of those who have been led into this unlawful and abhorrent practice and especially large numbers of the women who in a double sense are the victims of it Many of the men too are emigrants from Europe of the more ignorant class and may have had no adequate notion of the situation into which they were led by Brigham Young and his associates and successors. It is however well to recollect that it was the Mormons themselves who offered more than a legitimate or merely pacific opposition to the law of 1862 In fact, under the excitement caused by it no life except a Mormon's would have been safe in Utah except for the presence of troops of the United States. Again it is by no means certain that Elder Cannon's promises at Washington will be regarded by any considerable number of the fanatics whom he represents All the hierarchs of this so called Zion have maintained and do still maintain that polygamy is no non essential but is one of the things indispensable to salvation True one small sect on of Mormonism does not recognize the foul practice, but this party has had no influence in shaping the policy of the church No doubt it was Brigham Young's strong will and the power he acquired over his people that had much to do in inspiring the resistance offered to the law They may be more tractable now, but it must be confessed that the prospect of speedy extinction of this disgusting evil is not very hopeful. Yet among decent people there can be no doubt of the obligations of the government in regard to it

THE COMSTOCK MINES

A Nevada newspaper referring to the crosscuts in progress on the Comstock lode expresses apprehension that they may prove barren It frankly says that in that event it will be good bye Comstock and Virginia City 'If it adds, there is not a good body of ore between the 2,000 and 2,300 levels there is certainly nothing within 300 feet above and there is nothing for the same distance below To do dead work for two or three hundred more feet with only a doubtful prospect would be impossible Assessments could not be raised to do it The expense of raising useless rock to the surface or even to the line of the Sutro tunnel, coupled with the strong probability of encountering large bodies of water and the obstructions offered by the intense heat would render the work of prospecting on uncertainties at such enormous depths out of the question The Comstock will either be selling for $200 000 000 the first of June or it won't sell for assessments '

It might not be the heaviest calamity that could befall the Pacific slope if the worst of these anticipations should be fulfilled Sooner or later the catastrophe must come The mine will not yield always at the rate of the last ten years and so long as occasional strikes are made there will be fostered a spirit of gambling which will continue to demoralize industry, rob the large class who are drawn into the vortex of speculation augment the already colossal fortunes of the bonanza kings and do mischief in every way to the industrial and moral interests of the country Through hopes of rich strikes which are adroitly played upon at stated times by the managers of the mines particular stocks are run up to enormous figures, and then the manipulators of the game 'unload' upon the people who are credulous enough to 'invest' and gather in millions by a species of robbery which if practised in anything else would send its authors to the penitentiary as the phenomenal scoundrels of the time It has often been thought that people would learn but they won't so long as the least hope is held out of gaining a prize in this the most uncertain of all lotteries. There is not one chance in a million Practically there is no chance at all

The yield of these mines costs on the whole far more than it is worth A few individuals amass great wealth but for the great mass of people there is no profit nor anything but loss The same energy and capital directed in other industries would bring far better general results The history of the world shows that mines of gold and silver have made no country rich Oregon has in her unfailing agricultural products a source of wealth which she could not afford to exchange for all the alluring and deceptive promises of bonanza mines It would be less matter if our industry and business did not share some degree of general demoralization produced by fever ish speculation in this absurd lottery founded on the Comstock lode which diffuses its poison through nearly all the currents of life on the Pacific slope

William H Wallace of Washington territory died at Steilacoom on the 8th February He was born in Miami county Ohio July 1 1811 removed in his youth to Indiana and thence 183 to Iowa where he served in both branches of the territorial legislature He was appointed by President Taylor receiver of public moneys at Fairfield Iowa which office he held until the beginning of Pierce's administration In 18 3 he removed to Washington territory After serving several years in the legislature of the territory he became a candidate for delegate in congress but was defeated by Gen Stevens This was in 1859 In 1861 he was appointed governor of the territory by President Lincoln Soon afterwards he was elected delegate to congress and was subsequently appointed governor of Idaho from which territory he was immediately returned to congress as delegate At the expiration of his term as delegate from Idaho in 18 he returned to Steilacoom where he has since resided Col Wallace was a true man and was held in highest esteem

The Maine legislature is inquiring into the expediency of abolishing the free high schools of the state It is an inquiry that is becoming general throughout the country In Maine there are also two normal schools which are supported by the state But they are pronounced little more than costly failures An argument for the free high schools is that they are needed to keep up the supply of teachers But how would it do to let teachers find means to educate themselves? It is no more the duty of the state to educate certain persons to be teachers than it is to educate others to be physicians or machinists On this whole subject the country has started wrong But the general discussion now going on about it indicates that there will soon be a return to the sound and comprehensive principles of the old common school system

It is intimated by the New York Times that a project is on foot in financial circles to test the constitutionality of the law in regard to reissuing the legal tenders Eminent legal authorities generally agree that the supreme court would of necessity condemn the law on the ground that to attempt the reissue of greenbacks that have been paid once would be to assert the power of the government to issue legal tender notes in time of peace A decision of this kind is almost a necessity to put a final quietus on schemes of robbery and confiscation through issues of depreciated legal tende

The New York Tribune thus describes Pelton's behavior before the Potter committee He was not only dreadfully embarrassed hesitating and contradictory on cross-examination but even his direct testimony was a painful exhibition from the very start He evaded prevaricated stammered explained involved himself hopelessly in meshes and muddle and was sometimes five or ten minutes in answering yes or no Had the Tribune been describing the manner of Chadwick Hackleman or Cann it could not have done it more accurately

The New Orleans Times finds little consolation in being impoverished by natives of Louisiana It says At the end of two years of genuine self government we are no better off than we were before except in purely sentimental consolation of knowing that we are being misgoverned and impoverished by our own people

The Boston Post (Dem) gives this warning to northern Democrats 'Gen Bragg of Wisconsin cracks his whip too often and too loud If the Democratic party has to choose between the 138 votes of the solid south and the 3 occasionally obtained from Wisconsin Wisconsin will have to go

During the year 1878 there was a steady flow of gold into this country Reports of the bureau of statistics, just published, show that $1,974 173 more gold was imported than was exported, while in 1877 the exports of gold exceeded imports by nearly $25,000 000

It is called by the Chicago Inter Ocean a high moral spectacle to see Mr Tilden mount the stand and say, "I can t tell a lie it was Pelton with his little hatchet '

WEDNESDAY MORNING FEB 12 1879

CITY.

THE STRASBURG CLOCK.—Notwithstanding the rainy weather is receiving extensive patronage the spacious room being at times hardly large enough to accommodate the crowds in attendance. Its success is not to be wondered at as its intricate combination of automatic and astronomical movements produce on the minds of all a sense of wonder and astonishment at the incomprehensible ingenuity displayed in its construction. None can afford to lose this opportunity of witnessing what has for centuries been considered one of the wonders of the age. It will no doubt continue to excite a lively desire on the part of all to see it as it is a most worthy object of inspection for all classes. It will continue on exhibition afternoon and evening at Halpruner's dancing academy until further notice.

LIVELY.—Boating on the upper Willamette is very lively just at present. Says the Salem Statesman of Tuesday. The steamer Ohio came down the river yesterday with a load of wheat which was discharged at the Kinney flouring mills. Three steamers passed up the river last evening and this morning for wheat at way points between here and Harrisburg. The river during the recent rain, has raised about four feet and is steadily rising and if it remains at a good boating stage for two weeks most of the wheat stored on the river will be shipped to the markets.

S S STATE OF CALIFORNIA.—The San Francisco Chronicle of the 6th says It was expected that the new steamship of the P C S S Company State of California, would leave Philadelphia on her trial trip yesterday. She was to proceed directly out to sea and be gone three days during which time she has been guaranteed to run fourteen knots an hour, and it is confidently believed that she will considerably exceed that rate of speed. The State of California will receive cargo soon after the return from her trial trip, and will then sail for this port.

TELEPHONE LINES DOWN.—The heavy snow storm which prevailed here Monday night prostrated a number of the lines belonging to the American Telephone and District Telegraph Company. Telephonic communication, as a natural consequence has been interrupted between many of the stations and the central office. A force of men were engaged yesterday in repairing the damage done and all the lines will be up and in operating condition as rapidly as possible.

TO THE BAR.—Mrs. Duniway, president of the Oregon State Woman's Suffrage Association, requests that the lawyers attend the meeting at Masonic Hall this evening to hear the address upon woman's enfranchisement, to be delivered by Hon. F O McCown, of Oregon City. Mr McCown is a clear and forcible speaker, and will doubtless be able to give a reason for his position upon this important subject. Let there be a large crowd to hear him.

SUICIDE.

MR WM LOVE A WELL KNOWN CITIZEN OF THIS COUNTY DROWNS HIMSELF WHILE LABORING UNDER A FIT OF TEMPORARY INSANITY—BODY RECOVERED.

Yesterday morning intelligence reached this city that William Love the dairyman, living at Columbia Slough, was missing from his home and had committed suicide by drowning. For the past few months he had been suffering from prolonged sickness, which had had a tendency to affect his mind and changing his usual cheerful nature to one of despondency. Yesterday while with his family at breakfast he suddenly arose from the table and left the house. Nothing was thought of his action at first, but his continued absence soon gave rise to alarm and a search was instituted. He was tracked to the slough bridge and at about midway on the structure his coat and hat were found lying near the edge, leaving but little doubt that in a fit of despondency he had rid himself of his bodily ills by casting himself into the river. Active measures were immediately taken to recover the body, his brother coming to the city to secure a set of grappling hooks for such purpose. At latest advices the body had not been recovered, though a large number of persons were engaged in the search. Mr. Love is the son of Captain Love, of the steamer Traveler, and was a well known and highly respected gentleman. He was about 38 years of age and leaves a large family to mourn his untimely end.

LATER.

Efforts which were made to recover the body of the missing man were successful. After grappling for some time near where the hat and coat of Mr. Love were found, the body of the unfortunate man was recovered.

PERSONAL.

Hon R P. Earhart, secretary of state, is in the city.

Says the Jacksonville Times of the 7th: Capt. A P Ankeny, largely interested in the mines of southern Oregon, was in town this week on his return from San Francisco. He is of course not favorably impressed with the prevailing weather but is quite hopeful. After visiting the Sterling Company's diggings he proceeded to Galice creek yesterday.

J C. Coolidge, Esq, chief clerk of the railway mail service on this coast, arrived on the steamer Elder yesterday morning. Mr. Coolidge comes to make an official inspection of that branch of the mail service in this state. He will remain here about a week. Mr Coolidge has been connected with the railway mail service on this coast the past nine years. He is a very efficient officer and a courteous gentleman.

AMUSEMENTS.

NEW MARKET THEATER.—Last night was very stormy, but that unpleasant circumstance did not prevent New Market Theater from being well filled. That intensely thrilling play, "A Celebrated Case," was presented for the second time. In some particulars the play was presented in better style than on its first presentation. The play run very smoothly, and there was no "stage nervousness" manifested, which was noticeable on the first night. The crowded condition of our columns prevent an extended notice. Suffice it to say that the various characters were admirably sustained and the piece in its entirity gave entire satisfaction, and several of the more thrilling scenes drew forth a storm of applause. Little Maud appeared to unusual advantage, her sweet, winning and artless simplicity drawing tears from many eyes. She has already won a warm niche in the public heart. To night "A Celebrated Case" will be repeated. Reserve your seats.

INTERESTING TO LADIES.—Dickey's "Creme de Lis" has now been before the public for ten years during which time this beautiful preparation has met with the highest approval at the hands of the fair sex—being as all who have used it will verify the only perfect preparation of its kind. Every ingredient entering the composition of Dickey's "Creme de Lis" is subjected to the most rigid test of modern Chemistry to insure the uniformity and purity of its combination and neither time nor expense have been spared to make it perfect—it being well known the public will appreciate and support a truly meritorious article. H A LOUGHARY, Sec'y

The president delivered the following address:

To the Officers and Members of the Oregon State Woman Suffrage Association:

Six years ago this morning,—I have good reason to remember the occasion well—an earnest and devoted band of human rights advocates braved the then popular storms of ridicule and all the shafts of ignorance and prejudice and met in this city pursuant to call from your present executive and many others and formed the nucleus of this state association which has grown from that undaunted beginning into a well organized and successful society that engages the respectful attention of all the prominent citizens of the commonwealth.

On this the sixth anniversary and seventh annual gathering of ourselves together I am proud to welcome these veterans in our ranks who have been with us from the beginning. The idea of woman's political enfranchisement which six years ago was so new and strange and consequently obnoxious to the unthinking masses is now no longer opposed by any save the extremely timid, or naturally tyrannical. Among the learned and philanthropic we count our friends in the state by thousands, and of the few who yet oppose us a majority will doubtless be convinced of the correctness of our claims before the labors of this association shall close.

Of course there is a class, always numerically large, of the ignorant and vicious who yet array themselves against the idea of woman's freedom. These will only yield to the irrepressible current of human destiny. Our object in holding these meetings is to awaken agitation and thereby continue the work of educating public sentiment through consequent investigation. Our labors are no longer ignored but are quoted or ridiculed. The best men in the state are among our outspoken allies, and but for the opposing vote of the unthinking and ignorant, to whose fiat we are compelled to remain in subjection yet a little longer, through power of the one-sided ballot, there would be no need of this convention.

Since this Association began its organized existence we have held besides the six annual meetings previous to this one, four special or "called" meetings, three in Salem, during the different biennial legislative sessions, and one, last summer, in Astoria. These meetings have always been held with a view to influencing legislation on behalf of the best interests of women, and through her, the best interests of our common humanity. As a society we have never been advocates of only woman's rights. Our mission has been broader than this, and our platform has known no sex and acknowledges no principle save the inherent and priceless one of individual liberty.

As an Association we have had some sort of hearing before each session of the legislature which has convened since our organized work began. Never, until last September, were we honored with other than a brief, spasmodic and strongly contested hearing, which was in its results unsatisfactory. True, we had prevailed upon our legislators, prior to that time, to give us the "woman's sole trader bill," and the "married woman's property bill," both of which, however, must remain comparatively null until we can be empowered with the political freedom necessary to make such bills available to any class. Never, until the last session, has woman's right to a place in the government received a tacit indorsement from a vast majority of its legislators as a body. During that session, every bill for the promotion of woman's interests, which was brought up for consideration, was passed almost without objection. Women were made voters on all school questions and road interests, and their individual property rights were just as nearly secured to them by law as legislative action can secure them to any class which is denied personal representation.

But, though I remained at the capital as your executive, during two-thirds of the entire session, I failed to get a bill before either house for amending the Constitution by striking out the word "male" from its code of rights, the failure resulting from the desire of our friends to pass the other bills above mentioned before reaching this one. Col N H Gates, of Wasco, who had charge of this bill, purposely held it back until the others should be passed and then, through some unlooked-for parliamentary technicality about the time for introducing new bills, this one affecting the political rights of women was tabled for the term, in company with many others. I was disappointed, but I could not help myself or this association. We are therefore compelled to possess our souls in what patience we can command till another biennial session, in the meantime never halting in our arduous work of educating the people to a higher sense of justice and equity.

The cause has made rapid progress throughout the nation during the past twelve month. The recent national convention in Washington was both successful and popular.

Newspapers, always an exponent of public sentiment, are devoted to the work, and areunit plying and being well sustained. The Woman's Journal of Boston Massachusetts, the National Citizen of Syracuse, New York, the Mirror of Denver Colorado and our own New Northwest are circulated weekly among hundreds of thousands of intelligent readers. Conventions are held annually in every state in the union and subordinated societies abound in different counties in every state. The leaders are women with characters and reputation beyond reproach. They have outlived calumny and trampled over suspicions. Their names are legion. Lucretia Mott and Mary Green, Lucy Stone and Mary A. Livermore, Dr. Clemence Lozier and Lillie Devereux Blake, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B Anthony, Miss Lockwood and Phoebe Couzins, Clara N Foltz, Laura De Force Gordon, Mary A Collins and Sarah L Knox, are only a very few of the more prominent ladies engaged in the work outside of Oregon whose devotion to duty has already rendered their names immortal.

A mighty army of workers, conspicuous among them being many grand and noble men crowd our rank and file, whose steady progress, like the march of a great army, is slowly and surely bearing our leaders on to victory.

Every woman who wields a pen or elevates her voice in public, whether her mission be that of teacher, preacher, actress, doctor, clerk, artist, architect, editor, or orator, is, may be unconsciously to herself but none the less surely, occupying her place in the great phalanx of figures that demonstrate the mighty problem of what women can do. Some of these may be apathetic, and others even may sneer at the pioneers who are hewing the way to their success, but their ignorance or injustice will make no difference in the final result. Every thinker knows that but for this woman movement not one of these would maintain her place, and but for it not one of them would even have secured aught. This work will go on till the victory is completed. And to the end that liberty and justice may everywhere triumph over every species of tyranny and wrong, let us work together with a hearty good will to remove from the hands of woman every shackle of oppression, and when this is done the beginning of a new era shall dawn upon a government that is then to become, as it of right ought to be, of the people and by the people.

EVENING SESSION.

The association met in Masonic hall at 7:30 in the evening and besides the members a very considerable number of visitors was present. The meeting was addressed by Mrs H A Loughary, Mrs. Dr Burr and Mrs Duniway. The speeches were well received all being devoted, of course, to the consideration of the objects of the association namely, the enfranchisement of women and the great reformations which are expected to follow.

A choir of young people rendered some songs in imitation of the Tennessee jubilee singers, and the audience was immensely pleased thereat.

Unavoidable circumstances prevented Hon F O McCown, of Oregon City from being present and addressing the audience but he telegraphed that he would certainly be on hand to night.

VALENTINES.—Next Friday is St Valentine's day, and neither sex nor any age is debarred by the rules of propriety, ordinarily governing from being just as silly and having just as much sport as the circumstances of each will allow. Mr Wm McCabe, at Morse's music store, is prepared with valentines to suit every taste and at all prices. He invites inspection of his stock.

TUESDAY Feb 11

Ben Holladay et al respondent vs S G Elliot et al appellants.

SYLLABUS. Where notice of appeal to this court is served on the respondents, the appellant may [illegible] at any time within the period limited by law for taking appeals.

Where the appellant [illegible] respondents having no attorney in the county and their residence [illegible] unknown to him he may serve the notices on the clerk of the circuit court [illegible] notwithstanding the appellant's attorney living in another county may know where the respondents reside. Opinion by Kelly C J.

Jacob May, Gilmore, respondent vs H C B[illegible], appellant, appeal from Yamhill county.

This is a suit in equity brought by the plaintiff to have annulled a deed made by her mother Mary A Monroe to the defendant on the 2nd day of January 18[illegible], for a tract of land in Yamhill county for alleged fraud and undue influence in obtaining it. In this case the following propositions are established by the evidence and pleadings.

First—That about the 1st of Oct 18[illegible] the defendant and said Mary A had entered into a contract of marriage.

Second—That the time for the consummation of that contract was agreed upon between them and she made arrangements for the marriage as agreed about the 1st of October 18[illegible], but for some reason the defendant did not appear and assent to the marriage at that time, but that the contract of marriage was not abandoned by them but continued.

Third—That during this time defendant solicited from her a conveyance of this land. It also appears that about as early as the 1st of October and about the first time fixed for their marriage said Mary A became pregnant by the defendant.

Under the condition in which the parties then were we think the defendant had no right to demand of said Mary A the execution of this deed, and any disposition of her property to him at that time would be legally subject to suspicion and liable to be set aside for undue influence, unless he should show to the contrary.

Where one occupies a confidential or fiduciary relation to another as that of guardian and ward, attorney and client etc, when the donee or grantee is suffered to exercise an unusual and commanding influence over the grantor courts will set aside the conveyance unless the grantee can show that the transaction was fair and without fraud or undue influence. And it is laid down as a rule that the influence of a man over a woman to whom he is engaged to be married is presumed to be so great that the courts will look with great suspicion upon the transfer of property from her to him. In order to arrive at a just conclusion as to the terms on which such a conveyance should be canceled the court will consider the status quo of the parties at the time when the conveyance was executed. A husband is not liable for the debts of his wife (dum sola) which were not demanded of him during the coverture and if he voluntarily pays them he cannot charge them against the reversionary estate of her heir.

When a deed which is only voidable is cancelled by a decree the original estate as between the parties is restored, and as between them the cancellation of the deed restores the estate subject to any equities between the parties which may be determined and settled by the decree. While this marriage existed the defendant held the legal title and his wife was possessed of an equity in it which entitled her to the legal title and we think whatever estate he had in the land was in her right and that he is entitled to courtesy in the land. We think courtesy attaches to an equitable as well as a legal estate.

The decree of the court below affirmed with costs. Opinion by Boise, J.

Ben Holladay et al, respondents vs S G Elliot et al, appellants, appeal from Marion county. Cause on trial.

Adjourned till 1 30 P M.

IMPORTANT MAIL ROUTE AND CONNECTIONS.

The Reno Nev Gazette has the following in regard to mail connections which will be of interest to Oregon:

We are informed that our state legislature is about to pass a joint resolution instructing our representatives in congress to give their best attention to securing the mail route 40,7[illegible] between Reno and [illegible]. [illegible] the information [illegible] the future [illegible] mail service [illegible] we heartily approve of the contemplated action [illegible] matter [illegible] representatives [illegible] that the service is required, we believe, and we are of the opinion that this route and its connections in Oregon will soon be one of great importance for all mails for the east from Southern Oregon. Part of their mails now go north to the Dalles and thence by way of Portland and San Francisco, whence by this route they will reach Reno on their way east nearly a week sooner than they now come. From another part of the country tapped by this route the mail is now sent by way of Jacksonville, Yreka and Sacramento, and from yet another by the way of Alturas, Red Bluff and Sacramento. None of these lines can compete with us in point of distance or time for California mails to Southern Oregon, northwestern California and northwestern Nevada. It is also of benefit to us there would be a great deal of eastern travel diverted to Reno as a starting point for the east, also during winter nearly all the travel to California from northern Oregon and [illegible] would come to Reno, this being the only road that is always open as well as most expeditious. Again our forwarding business will be largely increased so as to justify Redding and the Dalles our competitors for the trade from that region, have already secured daily mail service leading toward but not penetrating it.

TWO MORE HELPLESS CHRONIC CASES CURED IN ONE FAMILY, HUSBAND AND WIFE—TWO MORE FINGER BOARDS ERECTED TO POINT THE SUFFERING THOUSANDS OF THIS COAST TO A GENUINE HEALER, WHOSE CURES ARE ALWAYS PERMANENT, AND WHO NEVER FAILS TO CURE EVERY CURABLE DISEASE OF WHATEVER NAME OR NATURE.

The following cases were treated over 8 months ago, and both were complicated cases of Rheumatism and Paralysis, and were beyond the reach of medicine, more especially so, as both were old and the vital forces very much depleted. The permanent cure of these two sufferers in one short week's treatment is most respectfully dedicated to the thousands of hopeless sufferers on this coast hoping that they may go and do likewise. ENJOY LIFE.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means for enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health; but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worried out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof that Green's August Flower will make them as free from disease as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint is the direct cause of seventy five per cent of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. Sold by all druggists.

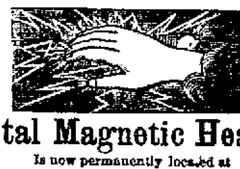
DR. D. HALL McLENNAN,



Vital Magnetic Healer,

Is now permanently located at 153 Fourth St., Corner of Morrison,
PORTLAND, OREGON,

Where those who are sick and need a physician should call on him, as he is performing cures by his natural powers of healing that has baffled all other methods of treatment. Invalids who have hitherto tried everything in vain should take courage, and leave off taking nauseating drugs in which are lurking the arrows of death, and try the living principles of Vital Magnetism, nature's mysterious gift to man. No medicine is used except when upon examination it is actually found to be wanting, and then only Herbal remedies, containing no mercury, calomel, or other poison. By this wonderful power of nature pain is removed in a few minutes, and broken down constitutions built up in a short time.

Physicians having in charge cases that resist the potency of drugs will confer a blessing on such by recommending them to this GREAT HEALER.

To parties not able to appear personally he will send Magnetic paper and medicine with full directions.

Consultation either in person or by mail is free. Consult him, as it may be the means of restoring you to health and happiness.

The Doctor has permission to refer to the following well known parties who have been treated by him: A. B Buckman, East Portland; A H Miller of Messrs Miller & Sons, office cor First and Morrison sts, Portland, residence, Salem, Oregon; H P Isaacs, Walla Walla; Morrison C Athey, attorney at law, Oregon City; Mr Geo Harger, Portland. Many more might be given but space will not admit. Over 100 endorsements and references can be had upon application at my office.

All sick persons while from home and in Portland under my care are most tenderly watched over, and nothing is left undone which it is believed will tend to make their stay pleasant and their recovery rapid.

Invalids desiring rooms with the attention of competent nurses can be accommodated at my MAGNETIC INSTITUTE, 153 Fourth st., 2d door from Morrison, where I can be consulted daily, from 10 A M to 5 P M. ja23

The monetary situation as far as the local market is concerned is very quiet and transactions exceedingly light nor is much improvement expected until the spring trade sets in to a greater extent.

In trade matters little has been done to-day owing to the usual rain storm which made out door business inconvenient and unpleasant and checked work at the docks and wharves. Prices are generally unchanged

The rain and snow fall of the past 24 hours has been unusually heavy and extensive extending over the entire region of Western Oregon and a great portion of California. We are in receipt of the following dispatch this evening

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 11

It has been raining here all day with slight intermissions and this evening it is raining very heavily with strong southeast wind. Reports from northern and central portions of the state show a heavy rainfall for the last 24 hours.

The effect of these rains upon the San Francisco wheat market it is expected will be to reduce prices as they render greater the probabilities of an abundant crop at the next harvest. Another result will be to strengthen the combination formed to advance freights so that although producers there are benefited proportionally by the rains the same cause will work to their present disadvantage.

We are also in receipt of full telegraphic reports of the condition of the English crops and markets which will prove of great advantage to all readers in any way connected with the grain trade on this coast. We call attention to the telegraphic reports below of even date herewith

English Crops and Markets

LONDON Feb 11 —The Mark Lane Express says Little plowing or spring sowing has been done to the present time. Dry weather is required to bring the land in working order

The deliveries of home grown grain at the country markets have been considerable but the condition of English wheat is unsatisfactory. There were only limited supplies of dry milling corn which maintained low rates

The activity in nearly every branch of trade continues. The imports have been light but the scarcity of money an entire want of speculation and distrust occasioned by numerous failures have reduced the British corn to a dead level. Russian wheat has arrived by way of Reval. St Petersburg and Cronstadt are still icebound. The first shipments from San Francisco have also arrived. The American visible supply continues unprecedently large. The quantity in view at the principal grain centers on the 1st of February was 20,875 000 bushels. In the face of such large supplies business has dragged during the week. Buyers have held aloof in the hope of obtaining greater concessions from sellers and prices are weak and unchanged. The check to supplies caused by the closing of the Sound has caused oats to rally six pence to a shilling per quarter. Maize to arrive has eased slightly. On the spot corn is not purchasable on lower terms. All other cereals moved off slowly at nominally low rates with small arrivals at ports of call. During the week the floating trade for wheat was firm. All positions occasionally advanced three pence to six pence per quarter for Ghirka description. Maize and barley in limited supply and prices maintained. Sales of English wheat during the last week 63,788 quarters. Imports into the United Kingdom for the week ending February 1st, 708,799 cwt of wheat and 108 741 cwt of flour

For all kinds of cereals the market is affected by the weather, which is unsettled. We have had heavy rains all over the state with prospects favorable for more as the wind is in the right direction. CONSUMPTION.

Mrs William Lawrence writing to Mr Fellows says I cannot tell you how many have called to inquire if I really had been as ill as reported and if it was the Syrup alone which so wonderfully restored me (a consumptive) to such good health. With gladness I tell them all that my recovery is due to Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, with the blessing of God upon it

Dr Earle's Testimonial

For several months past I have used Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites in the treatment of incipient phthisis chronic bronchitis and other affections of the chest and I have no hesitation in stating that it ranks foremost amongst the remedies used in those diseases

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL
Chronic and Difficult Diseases.

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female. He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language. But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness

DR BRENAN has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases Catarrh, Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and chest by an entirely new system only known to himself. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood. In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation and his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States. Diseases of the stomach, liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the disease if he is applied to in time

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual. This accounts in part for his great professional success

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand and the patient need not fear the result.

DR BRENAN will send to those living at a distance and who cannot well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments to any part of the country with full instructions and advice. Each letter requiring advice or list of questions must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable.

THE DOCTOR has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify

CAUTION.

Persons coming to Portland requiring medical treatment of the proper kind who desire to consult with me will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients. Look out for them they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make. Be sure and ask for DR PAUL M BRENAN the Medical Lecturer and read his sign on his door.
